The data is used to analyze click behavior in emails as well as on the website. The resulting findings are used to optimize usability and technical aspects. To gain a holistic view, we combine the data you provide, insights gleaned from click behavior and information about tracking and marketing tools, please see [<https://arvato-supply-chain.com/data-protection>]. These tools allow us to generate general and individual knowledge about click behavior on the website, e.g. downloading documents, registrations using forms, telephone numbers and email addresses clicked on, participation in events, email openings and clicks as well as time spent on the website until leaving the website. In addition, we reserve the right to use the data generated to facilitate a personalized approach or to use it to automate and optimize marketing activities and processes on the basis of the knowledge gained.

Usage data generated by the services rendered through the Infoservice, e.g. whitepaper downloads, webinar participation, event participation or business updates, will be automatically deleted by the Infoservice four (4) months after termination.
